Frequently Asked Questions

✓ Zipper Anatomy and Terminology

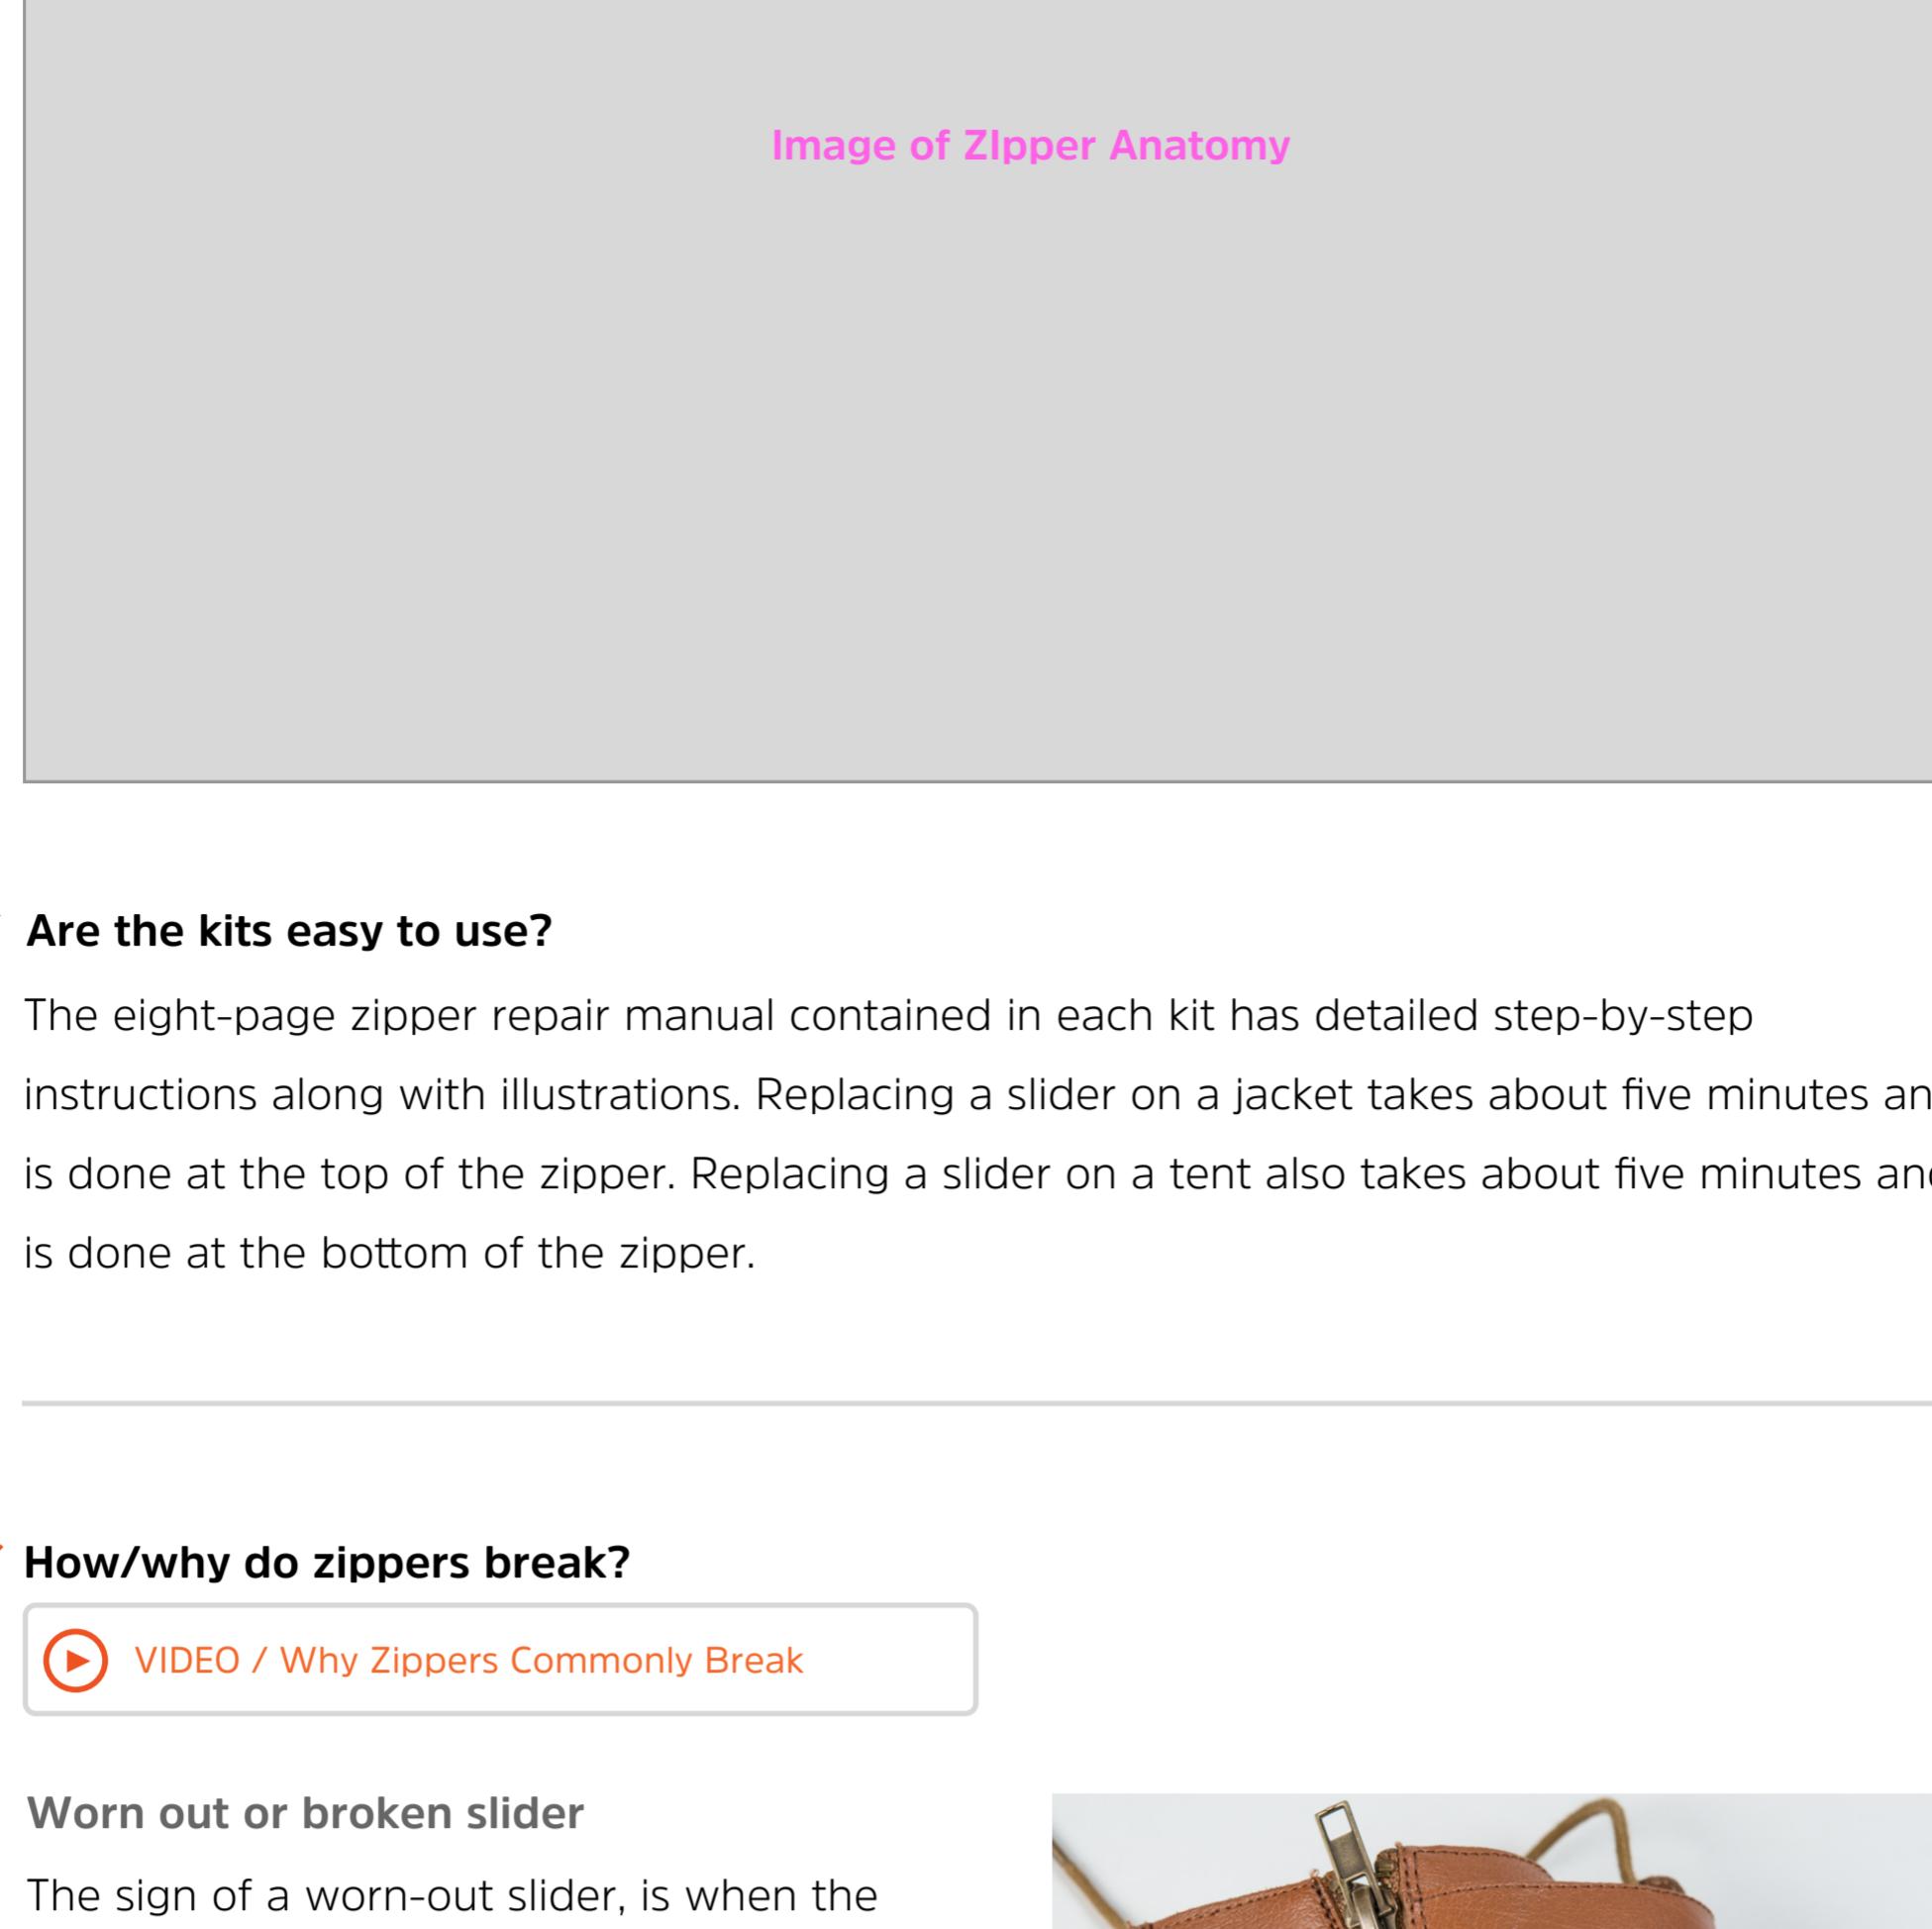

Image of Zipper Anatomy

✓ Are the kits easy to use?

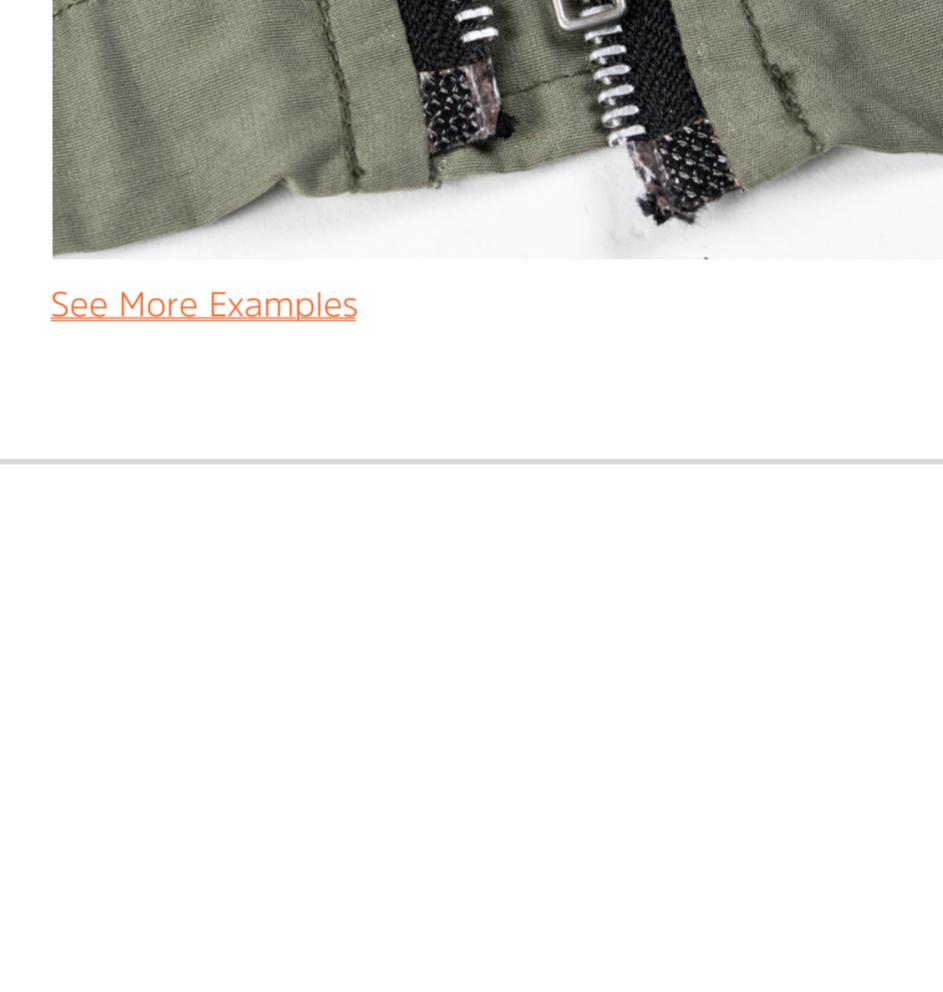

The eight-page zipper repair manual contained in each kit has detailed step-by-step instructions along with illustrations. Replacing a slider on a jacket takes about five minutes and is done at the top of the zipper. Replacing a slider on a tent also takes about five minutes and is done at the bottom of the zipper.

✓ How/why do zippers break?

 VIDEO / Why Zippers Commonly Break

Worn out or broken slider

The sign of a worn-out slider, is when the teeth do not close or mesh together (animation of zipper not staying closed maybe), or maybe the slider or pull tab has broken completely (photo). Simply replacing the slider using one of our zipper rescue kits will get you back up and zipping in no time!

Missing teeth

 VIDEO / About Missing or Damaged Teeth

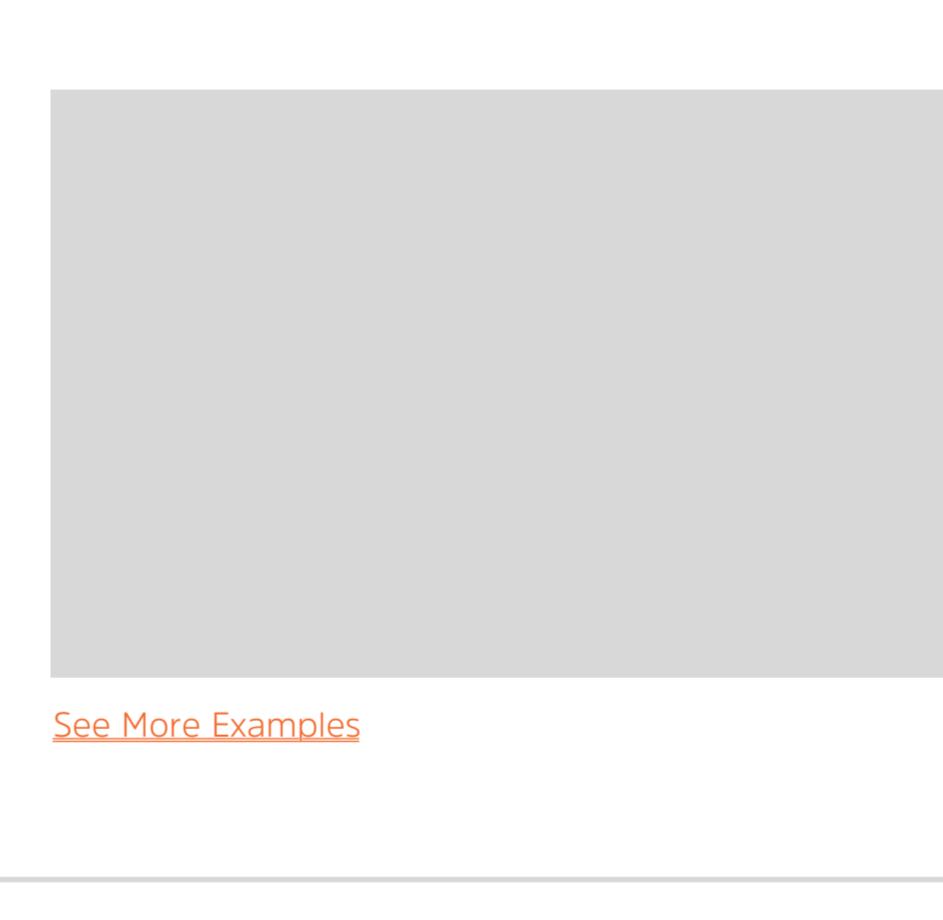

If the zipper teeth end up damaged or missing (Photos), this can sometimes require a new zipper to be sewn in. However there are some tricks.

Providing simple and practical solutions for do it yourself zipper repair

Zipper Rescue History

Providing simple and practical solutions for do it yourself zipper repair

ZRK Enterprises was founded in 1993 by Mike McCabe. A small family business, evolving from the labors of owning a canvas repair shop for 13 years in McCall, ID, and driven by the experience of repairing thousands of zippers on all kinds of clothing and gear. We see the broken zippers of the world as an opportunity to inform consumers why zippers break zippers and empower them to fix their gear when it breaks!

After owning a canvas repair shop in McCall ID for 13 years repairing thousands of zippers, we discovered that most zippers can be fixed in minutes with the correct replacement parts and simple repair techniques. He created the original Zipper Rescue Kits and went on to grow a small family business that allowed him time and freedom to be a good father
